

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The American Journal of Science and Arts for July contains several articles of particular interest. A Description of an Ancient Sepulchral Mound near Newark, Ohio," by O. C. Marsh, is an important addition to the researches of Squier, Davis, and Latham, into the history of the early inhabitants of the Mississippi Valley. The mound, which Mr. Marsh examined, was remarkable for its size and the number of skeletons which it contained, no fewer than 17 being found, while the works opened by previous explorers seldom contained more than one which unquestionably belonged to the mound-builders. The various implements and remains of animals found in this Newark mound were also remarkably numerous, and the author makes several ingenious and important deductions from them which promise to be of historical value. Prof. O. N. Root of Columbia College describes a new instrument for measuring the "Production of Thermo-Electric Currents by Percussion," and gives the result of his experiments with it. Edward S. Morse proposes a novel system for the "Classification of Molusca, based on the Principle of Cephalization," which will probably attract a good deal of attention from naturalists. Prof. E. B. Andrews, in a paper on "Petroleum in its Geological Relations," supports the theory that the oil, as now generally found, is the product of a distillation of bituminous shales &c., Dr. C. F. Winslow contributes "Notes on Tides at Tahiti, and Earthquake Phenomena," and expresses a hope that Prof. Bache will solicit and obtain from Congress the necessary authority and means to institute accurate and persistent observations upon tidal phenomena in the South Pacific Ocean, believing that researches made in that distant hemisphere will do more to enlarge our knowledge of mundane and planetary physics than those instituted upon the Atlantic shores. He adds some interesting remarks on the connection between the tides and earthquakes, and concludes that solar influence is the predominating element in causal action, and that the lunar connection with terrestrial phenomena is reactionary rather than direct. The well-known Canadian geologist, T. Sterry Hunt, furnishes "Further Contributions to the History of Lime and Magnesia Salts;" Josiah P. Cooke, Jr., a paper "On Danalite, a new Mineral Species from the Granite of Rockport, Mass." J. Lastance Smith, an interesting account of "The Emery Mine of Chester, Hampden County, Mass., with remarks on the nature of Emery, and its associate minerals;" and Prof. C. A. Young of Dartmouth, a description of "A Proposed Printing Chronograph." There are also several shorter articles, and the usual valuable summary of scientific intelligence.

AGENTS WANTED FOR HORACE GREENLEY'S

"AMERICAN CONFIDE"

Vol. I of this History, has met with unparalleled success—120,000 copies having already been sold. The author, himself, indicated by the press of all the leading Generals of the army, by the President, members of the Cabinet, Senators and Representatives in Congress, the Governors, Justices, men, and by thousands publicly opposed to the Government, have given their hearty endorsement.

Vol. II (and last) will be published in August, and will make the most brilliant and lasting record in the annals of history. The author's other and pain-taking research, devoted to a careful setting of the mass of civil-service materials adopted by various writers without verification, and the many errors and omissions which have been overlooked—including much from the Rebel side—cannot fail, under the eminent qualifications of the author, to produce a record of surpassing excellence.
